Excerpt: . . . ranks third from the last, which may indicate that Experience is not always so important as is maintained. The correlation of the moral qualities and the physical qualities of Voice and Energy are high, but when compared with the other qualities they seem to be less important. The low correlation of Health indicates either that good teaching is very hard on those engaged in it or that teaching does not attract a very strong class of people into its ranks--or that the disadvantage of relatively poor health may be overcome by exertion. When we compare these results with those from Ruediger and Strayers investigation of elementary teachers we find points which tend to confirm the results of both, and yet, if the findings in the two cases can be taken as typical of elementary and secondary teachers, there are differences which show some different...
